Mt. Kintoki

■Observatory
Mt. Kintoki—famous for Kintaro—can be viewed ahead.

■Stewartia monadelpha

■Cornus kousa

The path could be disorienting. Watch for the sign.

The path could be disorienting. Watch for the sign.

Enjoy the wildflowers of the seasons. Beware that you do not pluck them, however. It is prohibited.

■Row of wild cherry trees

Nanakusa no Komichi
[Path of Seven Flowers]

■Shiba Koen [Grass Park]

■Rhododendron oomurasaki
Rhododendron oomurasaki is in magnificent bloom in early April.

■Misuzu no Taki
(Smaller waterfall)
Strain your ears. The fall sounds refreshing, like the tinkling of a bell.

Shakunage no Komichi
[Path of Rhododendrons]

Both sides of the path are colored with rhododendrons from late May to June.

■Japanese bush clovers

■Komorebi no Komichi
[Path of Sunshine Filtering Through Foliage]
Slow down a bit and enjoy the flowers on the trees and music of the birds.

■Wild cherry trees
Oshima cherry, of over 150 years of age, is in full bloom at the end of April.

■Tsutsuji En
[Azalea Garden]
Azaleas are at their best in June. Take a break around here.

■Oishi [Big Stone]

Entrance

■Aizen Bashi
[Aizen Bridge]
The bridge across the pond may make you feel romantic as a part of its name, "Ai," means love in Japanese.

■Solitary Japanese cedar
This towering Japanese cedar in the middle of the path may decide your fate. Are you passing through its right or left?

■Fuji no Kojima
[Small Island of Wisteria]
Take the stepping stones and land on the island. You may feel as if you are floating over the pond. Take a short break here.

■Wild cherry trees

■Veitch's bamboos

■Sugi no Sakamichi
[Slope of Japanese cedars]
The slope weaving through cedars is the steepest of the entire walkway.

The walk gets rough from here. But hang on, and you'll reach the goal very soon!

■Fujidana En [Wisteria Trellis Garden]
Wisteria flowers are at their best in June.
